Giovanni Pistachio.

Black Screen, slight pause, no noise then suddenly we here an alarm clock going off over the screen.

OPEN ON.

1.
The room is filled with light and Cyril the man in the bed begins to stir. Cyril wakes up and switches the alarm clock off.
He gets onto the edge of the bed, rubs his face, he is still half-asleep.

He quickly looks around for clothes, finds most of them but comes to the problem that he cannot find any trousers.

Cyril

Ohh Shit!

3.
He gets up heads to bathroom to go thru his shower and wash routine.

FADE OUT.

FADE IN.
(NOTE: NOT SHOWN!)

He comes out of bathroom dressed, not wearing trousers, but either pink Bermuda shorts, or similarly embarrassing boxer shorts.

Cyril (looking at clock)

Fuck! First day of the shoot, I'm gonna be late, and I have gotta wear these.

Christ, these bloody new directors

No experience and he's gonna be telling us what to do too.
Focus puller nods his head in agreement, and then shakes his head in disbelief.

3.
Suddenly the door opens and the director in his shorts walks in, back-lit in the door by the sun. The people out of the silhouette, into focus and walks to greet them in the centre of the room.

He stands there frozen to the spot, totally mortified.
He plucks up the courage to speak, and begins to clear cast.

Cyril

Now what we are gonna do for this first scene is have the camera here, shoot the exchange of dialogue between the characters using a pan back and forth, instead of shot and reverse shot.

The cinematographer nods in agreement, but has a trace of a smirk on his face.

Cyril (turning to all the crew)

Ok then let's begin shall we?

CUT TO.

All of the crew in shot, stopped in their tracks. They all point and stare bursting out laughing, and again pointing at his shorts.
